

system of 'smart' touchless dispensers which are designed for constant operation in 'heavy use' environments like care homes. The hands-free system means the dispensers themselves remain free from contamination.

Users simply have to place a hand under the infrared, motion-activated dispenser to receive a measured amount of hospital-grade, non-gel rinse capable of killing 99.9 per cent of bacteria, viruses and fungus in seconds.

PKL KitchenPods for care home sector

PKL, the world's largest supplier of temporary kitchens and catering equipment for hire, has launched its KitchenPods range into the residential care sector.

Available to buy, or on a contract rental basis, KitchenPods come in a range of sizes and offer an ideal solution for any care home to maximise its revenue by converting an existing kitchen into additional bed space.

Alternatively it can help homes that need to improve or refurbish any existing kitchen facilities by providing them with a complete, ready to order permanent kitchen building.

Once ordered, the KitchenPod modular kitchen building can be delivered within six weeks and, despite being a permanent building, can be relocated, removed or easily extended as the needs of the care home change over time.

KitchenPods are available in a wide range of finishes, including an attractive wood cladding or a customised brick slip.
